Redact+ Protect-the-Thread™ With In-the-Message DLP

Senders are now empowered to ensure that certain content of an email – like payment details, negotiated terms, or other sensitive content – is redacted from the message body. It protects the sender by automatically cleansing the email thread of sensitive content while at the recipient regardless of how a recipient replies or who they forward the message to.